REPORT ON VIABLE CAPITAL MARKET

The Global ISB Forum (TGIF) organised by Indian School of Business, is an event, timely and relevant for today's technology driven workplace, an opportunity to interact with speakers, connect with each other, and learn in a meaningful way.

It was an interactive session with Dr Viral V Acharya, Deputy Governor, Reserve Bank of India who spoke about 'Establishing Viable Capital Markets: The Indian Experience 'and what the Deputy Governor has on his agenda before the Budget. He was in conversation with Professor Bhagwan Chowdhry.

Well functioning financial markets are essential for channelling savings in a country to productive opportunities for supporting robust growth. Financial institutions, such as banks and security markets must be well designed and transparently regulated to achieve this.

What has been done in India in the recent past and what is being planned in the near future to achieve these goals?

Professor Bhagwan Chowdhry engaged in a deep conversation with Dr Viral Acharya, Deputy Governor of the Reserve Bank of India, on leave from New York University, Stern School of Business on these topics and what it is like to wear two hats of a well-renowned academic and of an influential policy maker.

Students attended the session on June 29 2019 are following:
